

A Supplement
to the Jewish Exponent
September 6, 2007

Style Pieces

What's New

Written by Greg Salisbury

Compiled by Barbara Bookbinder

Rabl-Rousing

A round of well-deserved kudos to Berta Sawyer, which has become the first boutique in the entire country and the exclusive Pennsylvania retailer) to carry the Roni Rabl clothing line. Rabl, one of Israel's pre-eminent designers, is well known for her crepe knit fabric that allows much of her clothing to be year-round items. It's washable, dryable and doesn't wrinkle or sag. Wish we could say the same!

306 Old York Rd., Jenkintown
215.572.8826; www.ronirabl.com

the capacity to take care of everyone who wants your attention? If you're Artur Kirsh, of Studio CL, and Rosa Martinez for Studio Artur, the answer is simple: you launch your own hair care line, called, um, Artur. From shampoos to conditioners, pomades to pastes, now you can get the Artur experience without having to read magazines.

129 S. 19th St., Philadelphia; Rosa Martinez for Studio Artur, 728 West Ave., Jenkintown; www.studioartur.com

Italian Lessons

If you're looking to give your dining room and/or your kitchen that distinctly warm, rustic yet elegant look of an Italian villa, then you finally have a reason to go to Manayunk. La Tavola, celebrating its second year on Main Street, is an abundance of Italiana showcasing designers and companies like Vietri, Casafina, Tutto Mio and more. At La Tavola, you will not only satisfy that craving for Tuscan earthenware—you will do so without having to face just how strong the Euro is.

4361 Main St., Manayunk; www.latavolaonline.com
215-428-3270

Microwave of the Future

Next time you find yourself cursing at the microwave for taking up so much counter space, why not think instead about your drawer space; specifically, the space that can be used to house Dacor's Microwave-In-A-Drawer. Yes, you read it right—instead of having mismatched Tupperware, you could have a microwave in a drawer. All of the features of a regular microwave, including a child safety lock. It's not right to covet, you know, but we'll make an exception for this item.

For locations, please visit www.dacor.com; 1.800.793.0093

Hair Today

What to do if you are a renowned hairstylist and salon owner with two locations that still don't have

Attention, Shoppers!

What are you doing tonight, Thursday, September 6? No, forget about those plans. You need to get down to Old City for the grand opening of Orytah, a store dedicated to Jewish arts and culture.

"HAVDALAH" BY DEBRA KAPNEK

With the exception of the fabulous gift shop at the National Museum of American Jewish History, there is no other boutique in Philadelphia so focused on Judaica. And what, exactly does Orytah mean? Well, we could tell you, but now you have another reason to go to the opening.

33 N. 3rd St., Philadelphia, 215.692.4445; www.orytah.com